The words "on special cause being shown" in the proviso to section 31 of the Indian Registration Act, 1908, appear to be wide enough to include even visits to Company's offices on the ground that the seals of the Company are heavy or are attached to a part of the office premises. Attendance on special cause being shown is within the discretion of the Registrar or sub-Registrar. The view taken by U.S. (R.D.) on this point is correct.

It is presumed that code order 189(11) quoted by the Inspector General of Registration in his letter at p.1 ante is not statutory. If so, it is for the administrative department to interpret its order.
